The Brand

AARON KEARNEY DESIGN

Originating from Belfast, Northern Ireland, our collection of ceramics are at the forefront of functionality & style. Lead by a cutting-edge design, they not only enhance the dining experience but also set a new standard for culinary elegance.

We understand that in the hospitality world, every detail matters. Our ceramics transform dining into an art form, adding perfection to every plate.

Our USP's

- Multi-Functional: Our ceramics are made for culinary creativity. Designed for versatility, our dishes are perfect for accommodating a wide variety of menu changes. From appetisers to mains and desserts, our multi-functional tableware effortlessly transitions between dishes, offering endless possibilities.
- Built to Last: We understand the dynamics of a fast paced restaurant environment. Our stoneware ceramics, fired to a higher temperature than earthenware, offer enhanced durability. Commercial dishwasher and microwave safe, our products stand up to the demands of busy kitchens without compromising on quality.
- Aesthetic Excellence: Elevate your food presentation to an art form with our uniquely curated glaze colours and shapes that complement and enhance the visual appeal of your dishes.
- Perfect for Sharing: Transform our traditional bowls and plates into extraordinary platters ideal for shared dining experiences. The straight edge of our products facilitate seamless platter creation, making them ideal for hosting guests.
- Enhanced Dining Experience: Our customers rave about the benefits of our straight-edged design, particularly for dishes that predominantly use a fork, such as curries and pastas.

A bit about our background...

After graduating from St Martin's College in London with a degree in product design, Aaron initially went into furniture design and sculpture - first in London and then in South Africa.

Whilst in South Africa he began exploring the medium of ceramics and challenging the idea that plates don't always need to be round. His vision was that ceramics could have an inbuilt functional straight edge, thus eradicating the need for a knife.

Aaron began Edge Ceramics as a passionate side project in South Africa before returning to his native Northern Ireland to contribute his design skills to the Emmy Award winning series, Game of Thrones. As Edge ceramics developed he was able to devote more time to the idea. The design is something that has struck a chord with a lot of people and as the brand's popularity grows so too does the range.

He now has a studio in the Portview Trade Centre, Belfast and through his ecommerce website and B2B relationships, the versatile range is regularly shipped to the UK & Ireland, as well as worldwide.
